Kingsbarns From Dream to Dram

Skotsk whisky, Single malt whisky

Kingsbarns Distillery er et single malt-distilleri i regionen Lowland som setter sin stolthet i å være The Spirit Of The Kingdom Of Fife. De bruker kun lokalt dyrket byggkorn fra de solfylte åkrene i regionen, som har sin opprinnelse i det piktiske kongedømmet Fife. Destilleriet eies og drives av den skotske familien Wemyss, kjent som prisvinnende single malt-blendere og uavhengige tappere med godt ry og lang erfaring i bransjen. De anstrenger seg for å skaffe kvalitetsfat fra hele verden til å modne single malten på og overføre distinkte smaker fra eika.

Den langsomme fermenteringsprosessen og destilleringen skaper en bemerkelsesverdig ren og kompleks spirit som er et resultat av nitidig håndverk. Wemyss inngikk et samarbeid med en tidligere profesjonell caddy ved Kingsbarns Golf Links for å realisere sin drøm. Frem til 2014 lå nærmeste destilleri 80 km unna og de så en mulighet til å skape noe spesielt nært golfsportens vugge. De fant en gård med et historisk sus over seg, men som hadde sett sine beste dager - East Newhall Farm - med sjarmerende bygninger og utsikt over kornåkrer, golfbaner og Nordsjøen i det fjerne.

Historien om Kingsbarns Single Malt Whisky begynner altså med konverteringen fra falleferdig gård til destilleri, og i mer enn tre år jobbet familien Wemyss nært med arkitekter, ingeniører og ledende whiskyspesialister mens visjonen sakte men sikkert tok form. Den eksklusive flasken har navnet Kingsbarns preget i tuten, en due på skulderen og et mønster rundt nederste del av flasken som symboliserer gårdens doocot (dueslag).

Kingsbarns Dream To Dram er en limited edition som ble destillert i 2015 og tappet på flasker i 2018. 90% av spriten er lagret på 1st fill ex-bourbon barrel og 10% er modnet på høvlede og forkullede STR barrique vinfat. Det er den første whisky fra Kingsbarns som er sluppet på markedet.

Cognac Groperrin 25 ans Bons Bois

Cognac, Cognac Brut

This cognac originates from a winegrower-polyculteur in the Chalais region, on the edge of Dordogne. This activity had started by his grandfather in 1901, continued by his father, then by himself. This elderly winegrower was forced to cease his activities in 2003 due to lack of a buyer. He then benefited from the grubbing-up premium, a subsidy which helped him financially as much as it was a heartbreak for him. Indeed, despite the economic crisis that was raging in our region, he had managed to reach 12 hectares of vines. The Bons Bois terroir, a wrongly discredited cru, is nonetheless remarkable thanks to a combination of factors, such as altitude (110 metres), typical soils (raw sands, deep clays), and practices that are often artisanal due to the smaller vineyard areas than in the other varieties (using small stills with particular shapes).

It has an old gold hue, with a sweet aroma of candied and virtually roasted fruit. It has a saline touch, rendering it pleasant and making you want to dive into the glass. The first taste is sweet and concentrated with warm and overpowering notes that fill the mouth. Its tannins are discreet but perfectly integrated. This cognac is already mature, at the peak of its ageing. The aftertaste is not very long, but not short either, its saltiness makes you want to have another drink.

Cognac Groperrin N°25 Grande Champagne BF

Cognac, Cognac Brut

A cognac with mysterious origins, which was not originally intended to be bottled. This cognac comes from a unique 400 litre cask, referenced in our stocks for many years. It has probably undergone some blends with cognacs of the same age, as happens sometimes to some of our casks that are not vintages, nor cognacs intended to be incorporated our collection. This cognac is not really a single estate, but it is a unique cask. It was during an inventory, in 2015, that we became aware of its exceptional quality, as if a fairy had suddenly decided to put a spell on it. Since then, it has been very carefully monitored, as we do for all cognacs destined to be presented to you. In 2019, having the choice between transferring it to demi-johns or bottling it, we chose to bottle it.

Almost black in colour, very dark, showing proof of a very long time spent in casks. Average palate, dense, nose of very old cognac, old Madeira, old Balsamic. However, blackcurrant buds, exotic fruits (passion fruit) emerge. The signature of a beautiful Grande Champagne is here, in this successful tension between thick notes and very elegant notes, which would be contradictory in another vintage. Rounded and creamy in the mouth. Pronounced rancio and well-developed tannins support the ensemble. Very dense, rich, slightly watery final, before the elegant notes of a very old Grande Champagne definitively settle. Very rare.

Kommentar: Humbling and evocative ancient Cognac. We do not know how much time it spent in wood vs. glass, but if it had spent its whole life in Quercus, which is entirely possible, we do believe in miracles again. Hallelujah. Angus says we could make great Jägerbombs out of this. I'll take his words for it.

Compass Box

Compass Box Ethereal Conquête

Skotsk whisky, Blended maltwhisky

This version, called Ethereal, is a nod to the Eleuthera bottling, the very first Blended Malt bottled by Compass Box. A blend of a Highland single malt (43.3%), a Speyside single malt (17.4%) and two Islay single malts (39.3%) ranging in age from 17 to 26 years, this new bottling was created by James Saxton and John Glaser to celebrate 65 years of La Maison du Whisky. It has a very fine aroma and flavour, with a delicate peaty, herbal and spicy character.

Farge: Lys gylden

Aroma: Superbly balanced. Very greedy (lemon pie, custard), the first nose is at the same time remarkably fruity (yellow and green lemons, green almond, Williams pear, Golden apple). On aeration, noble spices (cardamom, cloves, ginger) take over the olfactory space. Then, dark chocolate, candied lemons and vanilla take the measure of an aromatic palette that also features peat that is smoky, medicinal and camphorated.

Smak: Elegant, full of vivacity. Oscillating between root peat (gentian) and salt, green barley, white mint and aromatic plants (parsley, chives), the first nose is incredibly fresh. Capers, green olives and aniseed flavours bring a lot of originality to the mid-palate. Increasingly resinous (pine), vegetal (cough drops) and honeyed (lime), the aftertaste in turn raises the palette of flavours.

Ettersmak: Long, racy. Creamy (almond milk), the beginning of the finish is herbaceous (tobacco), roasted (coffee), honeyed (acacia) and slightly camphorated. With time, candied lemons, fresh figs and wild flowers (dandelion) precede a malty, animal (bacon) and spicy (star anise, cardamom) retro-olfaction. It should be noted that the peat has become tenderly chocolatey over time. The empty glass is mineral (shale), slightly tarry and heady (iris concrete).

Pris: 1 921,00 , VMP 14349001, 70 cl, 49 %

Compass Box Hedonism

Skotsk whisky, Blended grainwhisky

Tappingene er laget av en kombinasjon av 8 til 15 fat av kornwhisky fra destillerier som Cameron Bridge, et av de eldste kontinuerlig opererende destilleriene i Skottland, Cambus og flere. De fleste whiskyene i hedonismen har blitt modnet i firstfill amerikanske eikefat. Denne modningen gir en veldig spesiell whisky som er full og rund med rikt strukturerte smaker av vanilje og karamell.

Farge: Blek gul

Aroma: Subtil, livlig. Et hint av lakk gir raskt vei til korn (mais), vanilje og hvite blomster. Kandiserte frukter tar deretter over, ledsaget av krydder (kanel, muskatnøtt).

Smak: Kremet, konsentrert. Bitter appelsin og sjokolade utgjør en balansert og klassisk allianse. Midt-ganen er blomster (liljekonvall, lilje). Frisk valnøtt legger til et oljete hint.

Ettersmak: Lang og vegetalsk (høy), med korn igjen i høysetet. Den følger deretter en lysere sti (eukalyptus, mose). Luktfornebbelsen er fruktig (bringebær, aprikos).

Kommentar: Som aperitif, server med en liten mengde avkjølt vann. Sent på kvelden, server den bar. Gjør seg også i en god whisky sour

Farge: Gylden

Aroma: Fersk frukt og floral med lavendel og skotsk lyng

Smak: Tranebær, appelsinjuice og rosevann med velbalanserte krydder

Ettersmak: Den franske eiken gir en lang avslutning med Earl Grey te og hermetiserte pærer

Amrut

Amrut 2014 Brandy Finish Conquête

Indisk whisky, Single malt whisky

Undoubtedly the most memorable aspect of this Amrut's aroma and flavour palette is the complete absence of woody notes, which just goes to show the exceptional quality of the maturation. Divinely oxidative and syrupy but not sweet, this version reveals extraordinary maturity. On the finish, autumnal flavours of forest floor are the perfect example.

Farge: Burnished gold with copper tinges

Aroma: Fine, subtle. The delicious first nose reveals a beautiful liqueur that is rancio (apricot, bramble), balsamic (pine) and honeyed (heather, rose). Allowed to breathe, even more heady florals (broom, lavender, iris), beeswax and strong spices (turmeric, star anise) highlight the aroma palette's noble character. Candied fruits (pear, Mirabelle plum) and nuts (walnut, chestnut) beautifully punctuate this first stage of the tasting.

Smak: Dynamic, imposing. The superbly fruity (guava, fig, mango), vanilla and spicy (clove, pepper) attack is literally exhilarating. The more malty mid-palate then becomes far more concentrated. Essential oils and black olive illustrate this empyreumatic and smooth development. The very end of the palate is chocolatey and herbaceous (tobacco).

Ettersmak: Long, silky. Caressing the taste buds, the mouthfeel on the finish is seeped in the sweet and tangy juices of many different fruits, from lemon to melon, white peach, fresh fig and blood orange. The tertiary (bay leaf, lichen) retro-nasal olfaction reveals rare richness (vanilla flan, walnut cake). The empty glass is malty, floral (lily) and roasted (coffee).

Amrut 2014 Ex-Bourbon Lightly Peated Conquête

Indisk whisky, Single malt whisky

We fell immediately under the charm of this delicately smoky and peaty Amrut. With incredible depth and elegance, its aroma palette stretches far into the distance. Every note adds a new colour to an array of shades ranging from peony red to burnt sienna. And then there's the palate, whose delicate texture and noble expression continue right into the dried extracts found on the empty glass.

Farge: Cuivre orangé, orangey copper.

Aroma: Elegant, complex. On the first nose, a very subtle smoke and a no-less delicate peat soar over floral (reseda, peony, carnation), fruity (apricot, orange), honeyed (heather), chocolate and caramelized lands. Exceptional! Allowed to breathe, fragrances of Russian leather, tiger balm and ash bring lots of light to the aroma palette.

Smak: At once lively and delicate. On the attack, a liquorice and salty peat coats the outside of the palate. In its wake it brings malted barley grain, roasted apple and curry. The velvety mid-palate eloquently evokes emery cloth. The end of the palate are characterized by notes of cocoa bean.

Ettersmak: Long, remarkably well-balanced. The medicinal (benzoin resin), musky, spicy (clove), earthy, peaty and animal (smoked meat) start of the finish also reveals various red fruits (raspberry, strawberry) and black fruits (bramble, blackcurrant). The floral (lavender, lilac) retro-nasal olfaction is also oily (olive, linen), praline (gianduja) and nobly woody (oak stave). The empty glass releases smoke rings from a precious Havana cigar and straw aromas.

We fell immediately under the charm of this delicately smoky and peaty Amrut. With incredible depth and elegance, its aroma palette stretches far into the distance. Every note adds a new colour to an array of shades ranging from peony red to burnt sienna. And then there's the palate, whose delicate texture and noble expression continue right into the dried extracts found on the empty glass.

Farge: Burnished gold

Aroma: Though a close reflection of malted barley, the first nose takes us to a rich and abundantly fruity register (apple tart, ground almond). Allowed to breathe, it becomes vanilla and heady (lily, tuberose). Much later, lots of exotic fruits (passion fruit, banana, pineapple, mango) and sweet spices (cinnamon, ginger) drive the aroma palette higher.

Smak: Lively, full of style. The intensely fruity attack (guava, persimmon, apricot) coats the taste buds in a fine layer of liquorice and vanilla. Magnificently herbaceous (verbena, savory), floral (lime blossom) and tertiary (lichen, moss), the mid-palate reveals a remarkably delicate texture. As on the nose, the end of the palate drives the flavours even higher.

Ettersmak: Long, full of freshness. At the start of the finish, cocoa powder and pine resin are placed gently on the palate. The mentholated and fruity (greengage plum, melon) end of the finish has lots of substance while at the same time remaining ethereal. Pepped up with a hint of curry, the retro-nasal olfaction is both musky and delicately woody. The empty glass is animal (bacon), herbaceous (gentian) and praline.

Amrut 2014 Ex-Caroni Single Cask #5144 Conquête

Indisk whisky, Single malt whisky

This Amrut undeniably has much in common with the Cask 5143 found in our French Connections 2021 Creation Catalogue, despite the finish tending to focus more on malted barley. In any case, one thing is certain, maturation in a cask previously used for this legendary Trinidad & Tobago rum works particularly well with India's most famous single malt produced in Bangalore.

Farge: Burnished gold

Aroma: Rich, heady. The empyreumatic (petrol, sleet) and syrupy (cane sugar) first nose sees Caroni leave its signature on the entire palette of aromas. Then, gradually, bouquets of dried flowers, ripe fruits (peach, Boskoop apple, Louise Bonne pear), candied lemon and malty, brioche notes bring us to the world of single malts. The duality is magnificent.

Smak: Clean, taut. The generous and exuberant attack brings rum and whisky together under a single flag. Floral (heliotrope, mimosa, carnation) and mentholated flavours appear alongside still-warm cane sugar and hydrocarbon (turpentine, heating oil). This balance continues into the mid-palate. Then, irresistibly-and almost inevitably - the very end of the palate gives Caroni the upper hand.

Ettersmak: Long, silky. The rich (tarte tatin, raisin cake), honeyed (acacia, lime blossom) and spicy (cinnamon, clove) start of the finish allows barley to make a triumphant return. Founded on a beautiful bitterness, it invites us to savour barley sugar, very ripe banana, bourbon vanilla and pecan nuts. On the retro-nasal olfaction, coconut milk and praline envelop and refresh the taste buds. The empty glass is malty and floral (purple lilac) as a few whiffs of diesel linger in the air.

La Maison Du Whisky

BenRiach 12 ans 2009 Peated Port Pipe Single Cask Conquête

Skotsk whisky, Single malt whisky

The deeply enchanting palette of flavours and aromas found on this single cask depicts every detail of the voluptuous, almost syrupy, and oily style of the single malt produced at the Benriach distillery. Intensely smoky, medicinal, camphoric and sooty, it is also peppered with fruity, floral, vanilla and softly malty oases that bring lots of energy and vitality as well as a very pleasant sensation of freshness.

Farge: Burnished gold with copper tinges.

Aroma: Full, rich. On the first nose, aromas of sleet, incense paper, incense and camphor give an explicit description of the aroma palette's empyreumatic character. Allowed to breathe, notes of creosote, burnt wood, ash and smoke (cigar) accentuate this almost telluric and terpenic dimension. Then, gradually, citrus fruits (orange, mandarin), heady florals (broom, geranium, iris) and candy sugar begin to appear. Note that a sooty peat has also made itself known.

Smak: Both lively and smooth. On the attack, the cigar's smoke seeps deep into the taste buds. On the mid-palate, vanilla pod, wild strawberry and candied apricot highlight the port's influence. After this Lusitanian interlude, peat makes a comeback. It brings with it heaps of malted barley grain. The end of the palate then takes on the sleet and camphor notes from the first nose.

Ettersmak: Long, silky. At the start of the finish, soot spreads across the sides of the palate, as apricot stone and dark chocolate seize the centre of the flavour palette. The end of the finish is spicy (clove, nutmeg) and rooty (ginger, gentian). Next, straw, salted butter caramel, quince jelly and bourbon vanilla pod flavours bring lots of smoothness to a retro-nasal olfaction that reveals chromatic shades ranging from jet black to bright blonde, via every shade of orange. The empty glass is intensely smoky, malty, milky (almond, walnut) and mentholated.

GlenDronach 27 ans 1993 Oloroso Puncheon Single Cask Conquête

Skotsk whisky, Single malt whisky

If we had to choose just one word to sum up this version—a wonderful embodiment of Glendronach’s unique and inimitable style—it would be “passion”.

Indeed, passion is unavoidable when exploring the palette of aromas and flavours the generosity of which is equalled only by its fervour. Fans of Glendronach will particularly enjoy this version’s chivalrous nature easily worthy of Cervantès’ Don Quixote.

Farge: Orangey copper.

Aroma: Fleshy, juicy. Coated in a fine layer of emery cloth, the first nose wonderfully embodies Glendronach’s rancio (orange, cherry, apricot), empyreumatic (tar), herbaceous (bay leaf, lime blossom), almost peaty and earthy character. Outstanding. Allowed to breathe, heady florals (rose, lavender) make an original appearance alongside notes of rice that evoke the world of sake. This oriental touch is confirmed with aromas of blossoming cherry trees.

Smak: Lively yet generous. First, spices and chillies (cinnamon, clove, Cayenne pepper) pierce the palate. Almost simultaneously, sweet orange juice and salted butter caramel refresh the taste buds. This balance of flavours is completed with a stunning vegetal, roasted (coffee) and malted bitterness. Acting as the grand finale, the end of the palate is honeyed (lime blossom, heather), chocolatey and exotic (mango, passion fruit).

Ettersmak: Long, intense. The same exotic fruits become increasingly present and are now accompanied by persimmon and guava. So strong are the flavour palette’s powers of expression, it is almost as though we have begun a new tasting. Suddenly, notes of watercress, rocket and pine resin open up new, so-far-hidden horizons. Once again, Glendronach has outdone itself. On the retro-nasal olfaction, nuts (almond, walnut) and aromatic plants (chervil, oregano) set the pace. The empty glass takes us to the distillery’s warehouses to breathe in the scents of resting sherry casks.

Nagahama Single Malt Japanese Whisky Mizunara Peated #192

DESCRIPTION

Nagahama is the smallest distillery in Japan. Launched in 2016, the Nagahama distillery is one of these new emerging distilleries in Japan. It is installed on the site of the Nagahama Roman Brewery, created in 1996. The distillery has a direct connection to the waters of Lake Biwa, the largest freshwater lake in Japan whose source is Mount Ibuki. Nagahama is inspired by the new wave of small-scale distilleries, particularly identifiable in Scotland with Strathearn or Eden Mill. Its authentic peculiarity resides in its still: the smallest still in Japan called aranbic for its shape reminiscent of Arab architecture, in a 26m2 room. Master blender Takashi Kiyoi and distiller Yusuke Yahisa created this single malt, with a proportion of peaty barley, aged in a single mizunara cask. Producing a single malt that shows remarkable elegance and smoothness.

Farge: Reddish Amber

Aroma: Very gentle Soft and smooth like maple syrup. Relaxing tree scent, like Japanese traditional style house and vintage furniture Smoky aroma of peat with a hint of clove and herbs

Smak: First Milky and smooth taste, like butter Middle. Dry and woodenness Harmony of slight bitterness of tannin from Mizunara cask and peaty accent Finish. Well balanced taste with gentle smoky flavour

Ettersmak: Sweet and soft aftertaste reminiscent of peat

The New Zealand Whisky 33 ans 1988 Single Cask Conquête

New Zealand Whisky (The) 33 ans 1988 Single Cask Conquête

Skotsk whisky, Single malt whisky

Originally founded in Dunedin in 1974, the Willowbank distillery closed in 2000. When it was bought by the New Zealand Whisky Company, the few remaining casks were moved to a warehouse in Oamuru for storage, some 60 miles away. With a remarkably fresh expression, this venerable bottling is at once powerful, firm, intensely fruity and spicy, all while flirting with peat and smoke on the finish.

Farge: Burnished gold

Aroma: Refined, complex. Characterized by notes of beeswax and acacia honey, the first nose beams with freshness and maturity. At times mimicking a sake (rice grains), it becomes spicy (pinch of salt and clove) and candied (lemon, pear) once allowed to breathe. The aroma palette lingers on bourbon vanilla, pecan and sage.

Smak: Powerful, lively. The energetic attack is tangy at first (grapefruit zest). Very quickly, however, it becomes rich (Normandy tart), spicy (star anise, ginger), honeyed (beeswax) and mentholated. Note that, like the nose, the palette shows an indefatigable youthful spirit, reflected in fruity elements of marmalade and quince jelly.

Ettersmak: Long, alert. Like a Northern Highlands single malt, the start of the finish boasts a very pleasant salinity. It is also incredibly malty and rooted in an absorbent earth rich in trace minerals. Zesty liquorice sweets then bring lots of softness to the retro-nasal olfaction. All of these tones move unmistakably closer to peat, a move confirmed in the medicinal notes that then arrive (ointment, camphor). The empty glass is a mass of malted, floral, mentholated, liquorice and earthy aromas.

Elixir

Rosebank Roses Limited Edition – 21 yo Unity

Skotsk whisky, Single malt whisky

Unity is the sixth in a series of seven highly sought-after Rosebank bottlings, released annually by Elixir Distillers. It is a marriage of spirits distilled in both 1990 and 1991, matured in 75% American oak barrels and 25% Madeira hogsheads.

The casks used for the Roses series were among the last held by an independent company. Each bottling in the series represents a different character of Rosebank, bringing together casks with different styles to demonstrate this lost distillery's wonderful diversity.

Rosebank was mothballed in 1993 and the equipment was stolen in 2009. The spirit produced at the distillery was triple distilled, creating a light, floral style loved by many. Rosebank has since become a cult favourite amongst whisky lovers and collectors.

Farge: Lys mahogany

Aroma: Soft, poached peaches are lightly drizzled in a caramel mocha sauce and sprinkled with nibs of crushed, sweet macadamia nut – this aroma mingles with the fragrance of heady honeysuckle on a summer's evening.

Smak: Caramelised white chocolate and soft, fruity crèmes parisiennes are served after dinner with a glass of decadent, syrupy dessert wine to watch the last of the sun set.

Ettersmak: Sweet sandalwood and light spice round off this delectable delight to perfection

Farge: Gold

Aroma: Runny caramel, Belgian chocolate seashells, a hot malted milk drink, thick coated chocolate biscuits and a creamy chocolate milkshake. Hints of cooked orchard fruits and tobacco leaf at the back.

Smak: Honey-roasted parsnip and smoked, crispy bacon. Lots of brininess and some dried figs combine nicely with well integrated bonfire smoke.

Smak: Boiled sweets, orange peel and syrup envelop the palate unfolding into herbaceous notes, ground allspice and candied ginger. A whisper of star anise and a drizzle of maple syrup are a satisfying ode to a baker's kitchen on an autumn day.

Ettersmak: Ground cinnamon and mulled chai cider leave a soothing impression on the palate, echoed by a smattering of clove spice as the dazzling finale.

Aroma: Led by Tapatio's trademark pepperiness, this is more mellow than you might expect. Fruity apple and an undercurrent of roasted agave are joined by sweet cream and a hint of wood smoke.

Smak: Again, the pepper leads the way, but doesn't get in the way for the fruit and cream from the nose. The time spent in wood has added more spice to the already spicy spirit, although it has also rounded off some of the edges.

Ettersmak: Spicy, but not spiky. Fades very slowly.
